Job Search Tips

Source: US Department of Labor

Be positive. Most of all, don't feel ashamed or guilty. If you've lost your job, you're not alone.

Make a plan. A successful job search requires planning and time. When you've been laid off, your first need is often to earn money. Find out about any Unemployment Benefits you may qualify for, and learn about More Benefits and Assistance. You may also think about temporary work as you keep searching for a long-term position.

Know your options. When you're laid off from a job, you have experience in a particular occupation. You also have experience in a particular industry. As you look for a new job, you have several options.

Network, network, network. Talking to everyone you know is key. Read about how Networking can help you find and land a job.

Polish your resume. When you apply for a job, your resume is often the only information an employer has about you. Make sure your resume shows why you are right for the job.

Hunt deep for job leads. Even during a recession, businesses are hiring. But you need to hunt for openings in many different ways. You should use job banks, job fairs, American Job Centers, and your personal network.
