Watch Your Interview Manners

Don't smoke or chew gum. Sit at the edge of your chair and keep good eye contact with your interviewer.

Show Confidence

When the interviewer tells you what needs to be done in this position, relate your experience to their needs. Let them know that you can do this job.

If You Are Asked About Salary

Keep an open attitude. Let them know what you have been earning, but be sure to show them that the salary which you will accept depends on the quality and prospects for the position.

Show Interest

We all like people who like us. Interviewers are not mind readers. A firm expression of interest goes a long way towards getting you that offer. A simple "Thank you for your time, I am interested in being considered for the position" is excellent.

If You Are Offered the Position

If you are offered the position and you want it, accept it. If you are not sure, let the interviewer know that you would like a day to think about it. Make a date and call them back.
